Summit Terms Being Dictated By DeGaulle

French President
Building Prestige
Among Allies

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than any other single leader, President Charles de Gaulle of France is dictating the terms and timing for an East-West summit conference.

In the process he is building up his own prestige and the power of the French position within the Western Alliance.

In the 10 months since he has been president—he had become premier in June 1958—De Gaulle probably has done more than anyone here really thought possible to give his country a decisive voice in the formulation of Western plans and policies. He has done it by exploiting French weaknesses as well as strength.

United States officials are less annoyed than amazed at his operation. They have displayed privately some slight irritation at his disregard of President Eisenhower's wishes on summit timing. But many feel that De Gaulle's views are very close to those which the United States has traditionally held about getting to a summit: Walk, don't run.

Latest evidence of Gaullist diplomacy is to be found in his news conference at Paris Tuesday and the comparison of plans he laid out there with the known wishes of other summit participants.

De Gaulle announced that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will visit Paris March 15 and De Gaulle hopes he will stay about two weeks. He also said he wants another Western summit gathering in advance of the East-West meeting.

Almost simultaneously, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, advocate of the hasty summit technique, was explaining to the House of Commons in London that he wanted the East-West meeting at an early date. But no one in Washington thought he had any chance of getting it.

Macmillan, Khrushchev and Eisenhower all more or less favored an East-West summit before Christmas. De Gaulle killed that by insisting that the meeting not be held until next spring.

One of Eisenhower's basic conditions for East-West talks is that the Western Allies be satisfied, so he went along with De Gaulle's technique. Macmillan had no

Dinners Aid Community Chest Drive

Riding on a wave of fried chicken, the Salem Community Chest inched $694.65 closer to its $61,295 goal last night as Salem citizens went all-out in purchases of buckets of chicken from James Aldom, the Salem diner proprietor who is giving half of the proceeds to the Chest Fund.

The campaign stands at 97.4 per cent, with only $1,574 yet to be raised, according to figures supplied by Byron Maxson, Chest Association secretary.

A total of $59,721.13 is on hand now in cash and pledges, he said. Chicken orders total 397 in two days, with the balance of the week yet to go.

Orders are coming from individuals, clubs, office and factory workers and institutions. Salem City Hospital had chicken brought to all its patients on general diet at noon today, as well as hospital employees.

Tuesday evening, Louis Mattevi, owner of the Lape Hotel, carried fried chicken from the Diner and served them to his Lions Club guests in order to help the Community Chest. The Lions eat regularly at the Lape.

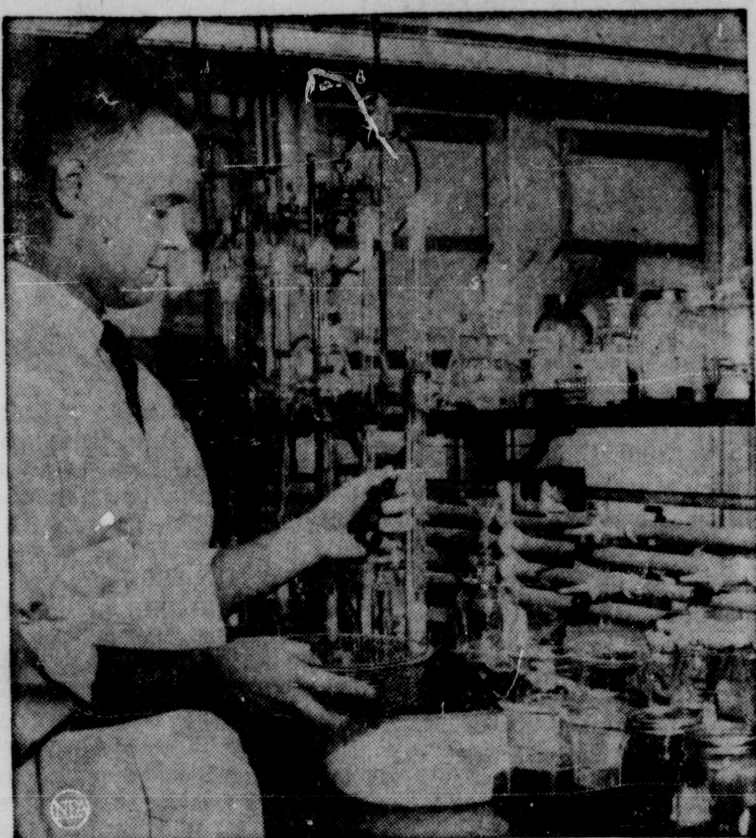

The Bud Shaffer garage, which is making deliveries on all orders, reports 250 miles covered in the last two days.

James T. Schaeffer and Horace Schwartz, co-chairmen of "Operation Chicken," reminded the public that $1.75 of every $3.50 chicken dinner order goes to the Chest fund.

CRANBERRY HASSLE BOGS HOLIDAY PLANS — George Miller, chemist for Seattle, Wash., office of the Federal Drug Administration, runs tests on cranberries as the cranberry hassle continues. U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare has cautioned that some Washington and Oregon cranberry crops may have been contaminated with an insecticide containing an agent that produces thyroid cancer in mice. Cranberry industry spokesmen claim stocks of canned and fresh berries are safe. State of Ohio and city of San Francisco have so far ordered a halt to sale of Washington-Oregon cranberries, for the present.

Flemming Incurs Wrath of Growers

Inspectors Begin Tests of Cranberries

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government fanned out 100 inspectors and 60 chemists today to test cranberries for possible contamination by a dangerous weed-killer.

Only limited quantities of berries from Washington and Oregon have been found to be contaminated.

Oregon Puts Cranberries In Storage

ALBANY, Ore., (AP) — Three million pounds of Oregon cranberries are moving into storage. Another million pounds were buried here because they may have been sprayed with a weed killer that produced cancer in a rat.

William Dufort said Tuesday: "Those berries were destroyed, not because we know they contain a chemical which would cause cancer, but on the mere chance the chemical might be found on them."

Dufort, Oregon manager of Spray Cranberries, Inc., said at Bandon, Ore., the cranberries buried a month ago were from the 1957 crop and those moving into storage are from the 1959 crop. Not a berry in the 1959 crop will go to market until the Federal Food and Drug Administration approves it, he said. He said the harvest this year in Oregon coastal bogs near Bandon was nearly complete.

The federal agency said aminothiazole, a chemical used to kill weeds in Washington and Oregon cranberry bogs, was found to cause cancer in a rat.

The Social Club of Lisbon launched the campaign to pay the hospital bills for the Jackson family. Mr. Jackson has only part-time employment.

The Columbiana County Cancer Society also is assisting the family. Mrs. Dorothy Tullis, president of the Social Club, and Mrs. Nellie McCaughin are co-chairmen of the campaign.

The Jacksons have two other children, a boy, two, and a girl, five months.

Unemployment Remains High Due to Strike

Mitchell Predicted
Under 3 Million;
Eats Hat of Cake

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell today ate his hat—a fedora made of cake—because unemployment failed to fall below three million last month as he had predicted.

But Mitchell sent a slice apiece to the leaders of the steel strike which kept joblessness high. President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers Union and the industry's top bargainer R. Conrad Cooper.

"I was a couple of hundred thousand off in my predictions, due entirely to the steel strike, not to any weakness in our economy," Mitchell said.

Unemployment in October was 3,270,000 though employment was 66,800,000, a record for the month. Mitchell in April predicted that by last month employment would rise to 67 million and joblessness would drop below 3 million.

When AFL-CIO President George Meany accused him of talking through his hat, Mitchell promised to eat his headpiece on the front steps of the Labor Department if he were proved wrong.

Aides to the secretary had a hat made of cake so the boss wouldn't get indigestion paying off.

The detailed figures given out by the Labor Department after the symbolic hat eating showed that employment rose 484,000 in October to 66,831,000. Unemployment rose 42,000 to 3,272,000.

The proportion of unemployment to the work force rose from 5.6 per cent in September to 6 per cent in October. The ratio was 5.3 per cent last April when Mitchell made his predictions.

Seymour Wolfstein, deputy assistant secretary of labor, estimated the layoffs due to the steel strike rose to the neighborhood of half a million before the strikers went back to work under a Taft-Hartley law court injunction.

Officials calculated that unemployment in October would have been in the neighborhood of 2,800,000, or nearly a half million less than the actual figures, if there had been no steel strike.

Average hourly earnings of factory workers declined slightly to $2.21, lowering average weekly earnings to $89.06.

Mitchell made his forecasts in a speech last April to a giant AFL-CIO rally here. Over 5,000 union members, many unemployed, demanded more government jobless aid and job-making moves.

The latest prior job and jobless totals, for September, were announced a month ago. They

Asleep In Plane, Man Takes Unwanted Trip

LISBON — An East Liverpool man Tuesday filed a suit for $5,811 in Common Pleas Court for taking an unwanted 4,000-mile trip after a Capital Airlines stewardess neglected to wake him up.

Thomas Lanam, a carpenter, said he boarded a Capital plane at Buffalo Oct. 2 to go to Pittsburgh, dozed off and woke up over Georgia, with Miami, Fla., as the next stop.

He claims also that he left a handbag containing Christmas presents valued at $149 with the ticket agent at the Miami Airport, and that he never got it back.

The unwanted flying trip and a two-day delay in reaching Pittsburgh caused him anguish and inconvenience, Lanam's petition said.

These ceremonies pay tribute to the American men and women who have fought in the wars of the United States.

Still alive to receive the tributes are one Confederate veteran of the Civil War, 60 veterans of the Indian wars, 42,000 Spanish American War veterans, 2,750,000 veterans of World War I, 15,230,000 veterans of World War II, and 5,456,000 Korean War veterans.

October 2nd Best Month In Industrial Pay

Industrial payrolls here during October amounted to the second highest monthly total this year, according to figures released by the Chamber of Commerce today.

Factory employment also showed an increase.

The city's industrial workers took home $1,592,806 in pay envelopes last month. This is second only to June figures during the first 10 months of 1959. That month the industrial payroll amounted to $1,688,936.

The factory employment total of 4,184 persons in October represents a jump of 54 workers over the preceding month, and a slight decrease under the June figure of 4,219.

Following are the employment figures for the past six months: May, 4,208; June, 4,219; July, 4,199; August, 4,138; September, 4,130 and October, 4,184.

Strikes Tied to Drop In Markets

Veteran Mediator
Discusses Issues

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Relations today between unions and managers prove this, at least: Managers are showing greater resistance to the demands of labor.

The basic reasons, according to Federal Mediator George Bell, for 18 years a federally paid peacemaker, are:

Increasing competition between producers.

Company attempts to regain some control over working conditions.

A general dislike of inflation.

During the past year alone, George Bell, with headquarters in Columbus, has acted as mutual friend and go-between in about 50 labor-management disputes in Ohio and bordering states.

"This has been one of the busiest years in labor relations, and each case has taken more time to settle than in the past," he said. The numerous work stoppages around the country are tied up directly with the drop in lush markets, Bell says. "This is a buyer's market. Companies now have to get out and sell, so they are taking a new look at production costs."

Turn to STRIKES, Page 8

Bell, one of about 200 mediators in the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, finds that managers generally try to cut costs by modernizing, which usually means mechanization. But the trouble with progress is that it often puts people out of work.

Bell explains that "unions are not opposed to the principle of

The theft was discovered by Miss La Voris Jones, a waitress, when she went to work at 7 a.m. today.

She told police she first discovered the kitchen door was open and that a cellar door had been broken. Next she called the owner, Odess Paparadis of 2007 Southeast Blvd., police said.

Paparadis found a window in the men's rest room had been knocked out. He believes entry was made through the window.

Large Tonnages Turned Out by Several Firms

50 Per Cent of Workers Have Returned to Jobs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steel mills throughout the country hummed with activity today as the giant industry gradually stepped up operations following a nationwide steel strike.

More than 50 per cent of the basic steel industry's 500,000 workers are back on the job. The rest are expected to be back at work by the weekend.

Mills are turning out fairly large tonnages of new steel. Only five days after the U.S. Supreme Court upheld a Taft-Hartley injunction ending the strike, the big U.S. Steel Corp. reported mills producing above 25 per cent of capacity. The firm said it may hit 60 per cent of capacity by the weekend.

Jones & Laughlin Steel said it expects to produce at 40 per cent this week.

Although the long-idled mills swung into production relatively fast, industry sources say it will be four to six weeks before the mills can produce at the normal rate of about 90 per cent.

Still hard-hit by the effects of the strike are the approximately 335,000 workers who were idled in other fields because their jobs depend on a going steel industry.

About 20,000 of these—mostly railroaders and coal miners—have been called back to work. But for thousands of others, particularly those employed in industries that use steel, there will be a longer period of idleness until fresh steel supplies become available.

General Motors Corp. announced it would close the last of its passenger car assembly lines today, idling 7,100 more workers. Chrysler Corp. said it has enough steel for only two more weeks.

Iron ore, one of steel's raw materials, is being moved by iron ore fleets from the upper Great Lakes to the mills. The ships normally stop operating in mid-December when the lakes freeze, but the Army Corps of Engineers announced the usual Dec. 15 closing of the Soo locks between Mishap Causes Fire At Lincoln Machine Co.

A chain on an overhead hoist broke Tuesday at the Lincoln Machine Co. at 326 W. 2nd St. and triggered an acetylene fire when the chain knocked the top off the tank.

The fire, reported at 1:56 p.m., burned for almost two hours. Firemen let it burn itself out for fear the tank would explode if the flames were extinguished. Fire Chief Clarence Wright explained. Later last night, firemen were called to 343 Highland Ave. to put out a leaf fire, Chief Wright said.

Northeast Ohio Wells Drying Up

Severe Water Dilemma Predicted for Midwest

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN

Water Problem II: The Midwest second of three articles on the national water problem.

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN

CHICAGO (AP) — The farmer, his leathery face streaked with dust and perspiration, turned the faucet handle at the barn water trough. The sun was scorching and his hogs were hot and thirsty.

The faucet gave a dribble, a wet gurgle and then nothing.

The farmer hurried into the house to the kitchen sink. No water there, either.

Alarmed now, he charged outside to the pump house. The gasoline engine was chugging full force. He ran the back of his hand against his bearded forehead.

"It's dry," he mumbled to himself. "The well has gone dry."

In town, a housewife turned on her bathroom shower. A trickle of muddy water dripped from the outlet. She fiddled with the handle.

At the town's only factory, the co-owners went into a worried huddle with their superintendent. Why had this happened? Water, like air, was something you took for granted in the Midwest.

But this was a drought year in the early 1950s. The farmer, the housewife and the factory owners had just received their first hand lesson: You don't always get water by turning on the faucet.

Generally ample rains in the Midwest in recent years have eased or removed many of the water shortage problems associated with drought. But expanding populations and soaring industrial use of water have created serious long-range problems for some localities.

In northeast Ohio, for example, where one-third of the state's population lives, wells are drying up. Experts say residents will have to pipe water from Lake Erie to meet future needs.

The Iowa Legislature in 1957 passed a law requiring that industry and farmers needing water for irrigation first must obtain permits from the State Water Board.

Even a city such as Milwaukee, which overlooks the deep, blue waters of Lake Michigan, has a problem. The city and its environs are outgrowing a water distribution system that once was adequate.

Fortunately for most of the Midwest, experts say, water sources are ample to meet any emergency. The area abounds in lakes, rivers and streams. The problem, and it entails considerable outlay of funds, is to deliver the supply to the right place when it is needed.

But one fact stands out when current Midwestern trends are projected into the future. If more and more wells are drilled into reservoirs of underground water to satisfy expanding populations and new industries, nature will not be able to keep up. When and where it falls behind, as is now happening in some sections, communities will have to turn to the region's abundant surface water in lakes and rivers for their supply.

That means pipelines or aqueducts—and higher water bills.

Ohio Opens Bids On Road Projects

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Department of Highways today opened bids on an estimated 12 million dollars' worth of construction projects.

By far the largest involves construction of six bridges in the Steubenville-Mingo Junction area to improve the flow of traffic on Ohio 7 by eliminating a half-dozen intersections. The department describes the big project as a part of a long-term program to upgrade Ohio 7 paralleling the Ohio River. Apparent low bid was $3,620,838 by C. S. Replogle Co., Cincinnati. The state estimate was $4,315,200.

Another multimillion-dollar project involves an underpass on Vine Street just east of Ohio 2 in Willoughby. Apparent low bid was $1,490,137 by Joan F. Casey, Pittsburgh, Pa. State estimate: $1,934,000.

Among other projects: Franklin County: Lowering Oentangy River road in Columbus to provide more clearance at the railroad underpass between Goodale Street and the Spring-Sandusky interchange. Apparent low bid of $200,000 was submitted by Visintine Co. of Columbus. State estimate: $197,100.

Mercer: Construction of three bridges on Ohio 274 over two branches of Beaver Creek and Chickasaw Creek in the village of Chickasaw in Mercer County. Apparent low bid was $146,473 by Hinton Construction Co., Celina. State estimate: $178,000.

Richland: Replacement of Wayne Street Bridge over Rocky Fork Creek in Mansfield. Apparent low bid of $56,214 by John Hill Construction Co., Lexington. Estimate: $64,250.

Pickaway: Construction of supplementary floodplain bridge over Big Darby Creek on Ohio 104. Apparent low bid $66,784 by Twin Construction Co., Chillicothe. Estimate: $80,700.

DOCKING IS UP

Sewage Permit Renewals Granted To Niles, Girard

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Mahoning River communities of Niles and Girard today were granted a renewed permit to discharge untreated sewage into state waters.

The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board granted Niles a permit until Jan. 15 when another progress report on its sewage disposal construction program is due.

The request was granted on the basis of a statement made by Niles Mayor Edward P. Lenney, who said that his city will be accepting bids Nov. 24 for construction of the sewage plant. He said the community has been granted a federal appropriation of $150,000 to start construction. Total cost of the program, he said, will be about $3,600,000.

Accompanying the Niles mayor were Calvin W. Dix, service director, and Patrick J. Sullivan, city auditor.

The control board gave Girard until June 1 to continue using state waters for sewage disposal without a treatment plant. The permit was extended provided that the city completes construction of an intercepting sewer during the renewed permit time. In addition, Girard agreed to complete revision of their plans for a sewage treatment plant, to complete negotiations with bordering communities to incorporate their sewage systems in the program, and to complete plans to finance the overall project.

Girard City Engineer Theodore Dastole told the board the community will advertise for bids for construction of the plant as soon as possible. He added that some money is now available for the project through a city income tax passed recently. Fifty per cent of the tax is allocated to the sewage project, he said.

Dastole said 70 per cent of income from water bills is earmarked for the project.

He was accompanied by George Vince, service director, and Gene Rochette, street superintendent.

Court Awards Wooster Man $150,000

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Wooster man whose legs were injured in 1956 while he was working as a crossing watchman has won the largest personal injury damage award in the history of the U.S. district Court here—$150,000.

A jury of seven women and five men deliberated only an hour and 35 minutes before awarding the sum to Clarence A. McKinley, 39, of 1131 East Bowman St., Wooster. He had sued for $250,000.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, which employed McKinley at the Liberty St. crossing in Wooster when he was injured March 21, 1956, will appeal the verdict. Charles Clarke, attorney for the carrier, said.

At the trial it was testified McKinley halted cars while two trains passed the crossing, then waved traffic on. He then heard the whistle of a third train, a freight westbound on an east-bound track. He said a flasher light system in the guard shanty gave him no advance warning. He was too late to halt a truck which was struck by this third train.

A refrigerator hurled from the truck hit McKinley in the legs. He received fractures that confined him to a hospital for 104 days and left him crippled and unable to work, his attorney, Craig Spangenberg, said.

Soldiers Lick Forest Fire In Missouri

FT. LEONARD WOOD, Mo. (AP)—Two hundred smoke blackened soldiers battled a roaring forest fire for seven hours Tuesday before extinguishing it.

The fire licked to within 30 feet of a trailer camp for enlisted men and their families, but no one was injured.

Most of the fire was in the Mark Twain National Forest, part of which is on the military reservation. About 400 acres of trees were consumed.

Winds gusts of up to 25 miles an hour scattered the flames and at times weary soldiers battled as many as seven fires. The wind finally died down.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

There is in my dispatch case an old time table put out by the Russians—for the Moscow to Jupiter run, with stops at Mars and way stations. I laughed when I picked it up in Europe. But no more. Nor did I chuckle when D. R. Werner von Braun cracked the quip over us by saying it will take us 24 hours to get to the moon and 48 hours to get through Russian customs there.

For, it is a cold fact that because of the steel crisis we are now at least four months behind the year we already were behind the Soviets. Authority for this is none other than U.S. space chief, T. Keith Glennan. He reports that the stoppage has slowed work on a mysterious super-rocket which could hurl 1,000 pounds away out past the moon.

It is a three-stage flying mastodon called the Vega missile. It could also pitch a 4,000-pound payload into orbit.

ORIGINALLY this gadget was scheduled to hit the heavens sometime in 1961 to catch up with the Russian celestialnik of 1958. Now we may not make it until 1962 by which time we'll just be catching up with the Russians' 1959.

We are a free people—free to beat each other's brains in. But what some very high Pentagon officials want to know, as well as the White House, is why the materials procurement officers of our armed services and the space agency didn't feel free to stock up on needed steel—just as most industry did.

Screams as loud as a sonic smashing jet are coming from the Air Force because their Warren Base in Wyoming, their Vandenberg Base in California and their Lowery Base in Colorado are being delayed for want of steel.

These will all be Intercontinental Ballistic Missile sites—when they finished. From these bases the 6,000-mile monsters will be placed on launching pads and aimed at strategic Soviet targets.

WHO GOOFED? Warren Air Force Base at Cheyenne was begun in 1958. Steel could have been ordered right to July 1959.

True, the union didn't permit the movement of such finished steel until three weeks ago. That means the big bases, on which United States safety depends, would only have had to stock 10 weeks' supply. Wyoming's flat lands could have held a year's supply.

But these are operational sites. They have to be loaded with missiles before they could knock even a new Kremlin helicopter out of the air.

Yet there are delays in production of the big fellow known as the Atlas. So we've had to slow training and experimentation with this sky piercing juggernaut.

Why did the military not insist on stockpiling here?

Nor is there special steel for full production of the Titan missile or the Polaris missile, which can be wafted from a submarine.

The government states that the special steel is in acute shortage because it is not "inventoried." Why wasn't it?

It can be reported that all last week there were Pentagon conferences seeking to learn why certain Air Force ballistic missile bases and procurement divisions did not stock up.

THERE WAS, however, no screeching from the Navy. Its office of material did see to it that its suppliers and production people had enough stock on hand to last through the stoppage.

Shouldn't it sink in somewhere that if we're preparing to defend a free society—that society will have strikes?

For example, on Nov. 2 an auto union local in the Detroit area voted to strike a Chrysler Jupiter and Restone missile-making plant. There will be other such threats.

The least to come out of the steel crisis should be a supply system to keep us ever ready to get off the ground even if we are liberty-loving earth people.

Crushing News About Cranberries

While U. S. government officials and leaders of the cranberry industry argue about something called aminotriazole and its effect on the public health, the bulk of Americans contemplate and discuss in tones of shocked disbelief this national tragedy that has befallen them.

The real tragedy in the public mind is not that a villainous chemical has found its way into some of the bitter but beloved berries. The tragedy is that anything scandalous could damage the hallowed status of something as American as roast turkey and pumpkin pie.

Many a housewife grimly ponders the drab prospect of a holiday table deprived of the bright dash of color ordinarily provided by a shimmering dish of red cranberry sauce.

Many a prospective holiday glutton ponders what drab substitute may be served to him in place of the tart complement to the other rich delights that will stretch his belt to popping point.

Is there, in fact, any such thing as a substi-

ture for cranberry sauce at a Thanksgiving feast? Some cuisine creators may indeed simply leave an empty space on the groaning board in mournful memory of the temporary demise of a great tradition.

Still others, overwhelmed by the old-fashioned American spirit of gritty individualism, will see a patriotic duty to be done and remain steadfastly loyal to the maligned cranberry, innocent victim of modern science and modern government.

The more emotional of them might well express their Americanism by sitting down to table, bowing their heads in thanksgiving and crying "Damn the aminotriazole! Full speed ahead!"

But for everyone, the cautious and the courageous, cranberries will be present at American tables this year, whether in sad conversation or happy consumption. Thanksgiving is not Thanksgiving without them.

Let Us Give Some Devils Their Due

What still remains to be found out about the revelation that quiz shows should have been billed as dramatic presentations is not going to be startling. The disclosure of details has turned into a grim and dirty business — like killing chickens in a basement.

But going back to the fact that quiz shows should have been billed as plays, instead of real question - and - answer ordeals, some of us who want to be fair-minded would like to think of the good they did.

We would like to put in a word, too, for the skill with which the good was done. Most of the actors were amateurs. Most of them had to be handled with the utmost tact. Many of them, it should be remembered, were never allowed to know the plot. They played their roles straight. They were wonderful.

In some cases, their only preparation was a conversation with one of the producer's representatives who made it his business to find out what they knew so they could be asked questions they could answer. Conversely, the representative found out what they didn't know so no questions would be asked in their areas of ignorance.

ALL THE QUIZ SHOW performers, the phonies and the genuine articles, did a marvelous piece of work. They made it seem stylish to be well-informed. They put a rosy aura around the elliptical structure of egg-headedness in America.

Tots were urged to study harder so they could grow up to be fountains of information like Mr. Van Doren. In a somewhat different context, they were urged to muse on the possibility they might be able to take advantage of some of the incredible mish-mash of miscellaneous tidbits of information that came tumbling out of the mouth of Mr. Nadler.

Little girls were exhorted to quit playing with dolls and do something useful like Dr. Joyce Brothers. Even teen-agers were given a remote prospect of snapping out of the delinquency doldrums in time to learn about paintings and classical compositions.

It was a wonderful era while it lasted. No one felt like apologizing because the United States was lagging behind Russia in academic

Once Over

The National Horse Show has been entertainment feature for a week and it was a refreshing interval. Not a horse had to be summoned before a grand jury, Washington committee or district attorney. To a country shocked by dishonesty of human beings there was a terrific life in a show (it was on TV, too which demonstrated that animals are on the level and have character.

Mortimer Topblower went to the horse show cynically suspecting, from his study of world scene, that smart, fast-dollar and unethical folks would get into the act, selling horses on the idea of a "fix" in the park hackney, green hunter and military jumping events, not to mention the tallyho parade.

He has a way with animals and got into their confidence. "This was a show to lift men's hearts," he declares.

"Not a horse in the ring faked the performance. In fact, during the show a stranger was kicked and badly hurt. It turned out to be a show business guy who was trying to convince a three-gated saddle horse that crookedness over the hurdles was okay if it came under the head of entertainment.

"This horse told me a crook had proposed to rehearse it in bogus nervousness, excitement, balks and such things. The animal declared the fellow had said things could be arranged so every fence would be easy, if it would help boost tired blood pills and cosmetics," Topblower said.

"The horse let him have it when the fixer asked him to make facial grimaces, sweat and ask at every fence, 'Can I go back to that one later?'"

"There is something wonderful about a horse," we said.

"You can say that again," declared Topblower. "There was one skinner that jumped out of his stall and fled the Garden. It seems three men had approached it as an escort into the ring. It thought they were two cops and a bank vault attendant, and it went mad."

QUIZ SHOW SENSATIONS indicated need of immediate study of adult delinquency. Maybe the country needs a "National Shame Week." Or a "Let's Think It Over Month"

Urban-Farm Day

Salem business and civic leaders always have had close ties with district farmers, yet the Chamber of Commerce's scheduled urban-farm day observance Nov. 18 can bring about a better understanding of mutual problems.

Chamber members are inviting farmer friends to the noon luncheon that day in the Memorial Building. Conversation will not concern agriculture; instead, community related goals which can benefit families residing in the suburban and rural areas as well as in the city proper.

Only good can come from meetings such as this. Both the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs have had farmers as their guests at meetings in years past, with considerable success in fellowship and good will. The urban-farm day should be held annually in Salem.

Famed orchestra leader says he was promised questions wouldn't embarrass him but says if he had known of a fix he "wouldn't have done it in a million years." This is like declaring he wasn't told what he already knew.

K.K.T. writes, "What happened on quiz shows was a reflection of American standards. People have a passion for publicity, easy money and effortless rewards. The cheap characters who have been defying all decencies for a generation have become public idols, indicating greater glorification and fatter contracts are rewards for shabby behavior. If the present generation has followed the pattern it's no wonder."

Mr. K. Unchanged

By HARRY HOMEWOOD

The visit of Nikita Khrushchev, epochal as it might well be has inspired the Pollyannas of international realtions to a happy state of sugar-coated statements. This writer, having attended his progress through the Middle West, ventures to offer some reason for caution.

These well-meaning people say that because Khrushchev has seen the prosperous homes of our industrial workers, his Marxist thinking is going to be all upset; the workers of America are not standing with burning eyes, fingers curling into ready fists, waiting for the moment to cast off their chains and overthrow capitalism.

The diagnosis of the visit, as made by these people, follows the line of thought that because Khrushchev has seen the material wealth of this country, he is wisely going to conclude that starting a war would be madness, because we are too rich.

The reasoning is this: Mr. K has seen us. Ergo, he is impressed. Ipso facto, he will think a long while before he carries this cold war nonsense much further. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

THE AGILE, scheming brain that has enabled Nikita Khrushchev to mount ever upward over a sprawling pile of Soviet leaders to the eminence from where he rules over 200 million people is not a gullible brain.

The surface indicators of another culture are not likely to make much impression on that brain.

The intelligence system of the Russians, good enough to ferret out our atomic secrets, is certainly adequate to the task of reporting accurately our standard of living and the details of the economic structure on which that standard rests.

Khrushchev has long known we are a nation beyond compare in worldly goods.

He certainly has known in detail the creature comforts of the average American home and how the owners of that home obtained those luxuries.

So indeed does he know that American labor is, in effect, one and the same with American capitalism.

The fact of stock ownership by the people who produce the goods is not unknown to Khrushchev.

He knows that our labor force works under contracts containing benefits for labor that far exceed anything the Soviet state can offer its workers — benefits arrived at by negotiation.

Nikita Khrushchev did not come as a Messiah bound to convert the unbelievers to the great religion of Communism.

COMMUNISM is not a religion to Khrushchev. He came to this country with a far different idea in mind.

He came to this country to see for himself what he believes to be the locale of the next great historical movement — the next, irresistible surge in the sea of history. To Khrushchev, Communism is an inexorable fact.

Witness his unwillingness to arrive at a diplomatic condition that could result in war. He fears the destruction which nuclear war would bring not so much as he does any blocking of the movement that he believes to be inevitable.

Witness his unwillingness to yield suddenly on points on which his diplomats have been most obdurate, his sudden, unexplained vacillations of policy.

Khrushchev works for the unhindered flow of historical event. If war would slow it, war must not come. If stubbornness would delay, be amenable.

His remark, "My great-grandchildren will rule you," is illuminating. Khrushchev insists that he did not speak in a warlike sense.

"Great-grandchildren" means after two generations — 40 years. No geopolitician with the wealth of information available to Khrushchev would state that his country could conquer the world and hold it for 40 years.

He did mean that he believed in our downfall in two generations. To the dedicated Communist, this is a face of life — bigger, by far, than anything else.

This is the threat that we must meet squarely, with firmness and determination.

Morse's Ox Is Gored

Senator Calls Court Ruling 'Economic Peonage'

What's this about Sen. Morse (D-Ore) denouncing the Supreme Court of the United States for its decision in the steel case? Doesn't he, as a former dean of the law school of the University of Oregon, know that whatever the Supreme Court says is "the law of the land?"

Hasn't he been reading what his fellow liberals have been saying for months—namely, that to criticize the Supreme Court, as the good people of the South have been doing, is to "undermine the judiciary" and "defy the Constitution?"

Certainly the Oregon senator, once elected as a Republican and now a Democrat, knows all this. But he has the courage of his convictions.

He is an ardent partisan of the labor cause at times, yet he hasn't hesitated to criticize union labor.

Once, while a public member of the National War Labor Board, he wrote a stinging decision excoriating John L. Lewis and his leadership of the miners' union.

What the Oregon Democrat this time is objecting to fundamentally perhaps is that the court should exercise any coercive power at all on labor unions during a strike.

Thus, he speaks of the injunction order in the steel controversy as "economic peonage" and says:

"The Supreme Court's decision permits the steel industry management to break a strike and enforce free men to work against their will or go to jail while the anti-union steel officials go scot free."

THE ARGUMENT has a familiar ring. Existing law—namely, the Taft-Hartley Act—contains many an element of compulsion. It compels a man to join a union or lose his job.

To overcome this form of "economic peonage," some states now have laws or clauses in their constitutions giving a worker the right to work even if he doesn't join a union.

The compulsory factor is imbedded also in the collective bargaining process. A majority of the employees choose the union as a bargaining agent and the employer is required by law to deal with that representative. As for the minority group in a plant, they are deprived of their right to bargain for themselves as a unit.

They, too, could claim they are the victims of "economic peonage."

Another element of compulsion arises when an employee is dismissed for attempting to organize a union. The employer is compelled by government order to re-instate the employee.

Evidently Sen. Morse isn't always against compulsion, even when there is no law specifically governing the points in dispute, for he says:

"The Supreme Court completely ignored the doctrine of inherent executive power. It failed to apply the basic doctrine of equality of justice and the equality of legal obligations to both sides in the steel dispute."

HARRY TRUMAN, as President of the United States in 1952, used the doctrine of "inherent executive power" to seize the steel mills and was rebuked by the Supreme Court, which said there was no law that gave him such power and that there was nothing inherent in the executive power to allow such a step to be taken constitutionally.

Mr. Morse goes on to say: "If government has the power in a national emergency to force a man to work or go to jail it also has an inherent power to order a fair contract of work, covering hours, wages and conditions of employment during the period of enforced labor."

The lawyers of the South, of course, have been bitterly castigated because they denied the doctrine of "inherent power" as it has been applied in school "desegregation" rulings.

They opposed the idea that the judiciary could write injunctions prescribing administrative duties in the operation of the schools.

There was not then, and there is not now, any federal law on the statute books giving the federal government or the judiciary, power to run the schools. Yet, for their remonstrance on this point, the Southerners were vilified in print as lawless, as extremists, and as disrespectful to the constitution itself.

ONE WONDER what would have been said of the Southern senators or of Gov. Faubus, if any one of them had said, with respect to the loss of state rights over the schools, what Sen. Morse said about the supreme Court decision in the steel case:

"Every American flag should fly at half-mast for 80 days in memory of the precious loss of freedom."

The Oregon senator added that all workers would resent the "unconscionable injustice" in the court's decision.

All this, to be sure, comes under the head of free speech and, as usual, everything in politics depends on whose ox is gored.

Cuba's Well-Worn Path

By HARRY HOMEWOOD

Out of Cuba, that lovely land where abject poverty and breathtaking beauty walk hand in hand, has come the warning of Dr. Fidel Castro that he will arm his peasants to fight off foreign intervention.

Dr. Castro's warnings are not new ones. They're the natural consequences of the bearded dictator's amateurish attempts to control the complexities of government by television marathons and dreams that are colored, it would seem, with a deep Red tinge.

Nor is the pattern that is developing a new one for Cuba. Only the names of the players are changed. The game is still the same that has been played in Cuba since it first became a republic, on May 5, 1902.

Castro liberated Cuba from the bloody dictatorship of Fulgencio Batista.

BUT BATISTA, in his time, was also a liberator. He freed Cuba from the blood baths of Gen. Gerardo Machado. And Machado, when he first came to power in 1924, was in his own right a liberator who pledged himself to freedom from foreign intervention (via the loan route).

Machado curbed political corruption, built roads, stimulated local manufacturing by imposing a high protective tariff wall, built the tourist industry, encouraged agricultural diversification—and lapsed into a bloody dictatorship that wrote new chapters for bestiality. Now comes Dr. Castro to play his role.

He came as a liberator, as did most of Cuba's leaders.

He decided to remake the laws of the country, as did most of Cuba's leaders.

He has decided that foreign enterprise in Cuba is a bad thing for Cuba, as had most of Cuba's leaders.

Now he has dictated the return of the military tribunal form of justice—the firing squad. As did most of Cuba's leaders.

THE PATTERN is plain to see. The tortured history on that beautiful island has always been the same tragic refrain. Four centuries of subjugation have left the Cuban people unable to govern themselves.

One of the great dangers that might come of Dr. Fidel Castro's diatribes is that American business will shy further away from expansion in the Latin-American countries.

Our neighbors to the south want a higher standard of living. They want all the good things that come from an industrial society. They want freedom from want and privation. They want, with their own rightful reservations, to be like us.

But they are not learning how to get these things from us. They are learning from the Russians, the Italians, the Japanese—from people who remember how it was to be a non-industrial society only a few years ago and who now take the trouble to help.

The countries to the south of us are enormously important to our future. A great field of business and friendship lies ready for those who take the trouble to cultivate the area.

Is it that the Russians, the Italians, and the Japanese are better salesmen?

The Doctor Says

By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN, M.D.

Boredom Often Causes Tiredness

Is that "tired feeling" you have the result of strain or hard work? Or are you just bored and lazy?

Your doctor can treat the real thing easier than he can the one that comes from spurious causes. Take for example a self-indulgent woman. She's inherited money earned by hard-working parents. She has servants to do the domestic chores her mother used to do. Or perhaps her children are grown, like gone off and she's just letting the home go to seed.

Too "done-in" to make the trip to her doctor's office, she insists on a house visit. Perhaps wearied by a night's vigil with a patient, the physician tries his best to sort the wheat from the chaff of her multiple complaints.

HER MUSCLES flabby, she "aches from head to foot." Her mind idling in neutral, she whines about her ungrateful children, her unsympathetic doctor.

If she's one of the super-duper privileged, she's seen a small army of consultants, had repeated "work-ups" in better known medical centers and is proud possessor of a museum of X-ray films and laboratory reports.

She's had shots to regulate her blood pressure up or down, pills to raise her metabolism, diets to nourish her nerves, vitamins to supplement her meals and snacks, massage to give tone to her muscles, pepper-uppers in the morning to get her started on her aimless day and tranquilizers and sedatives to try to get her "one night of good sleep."

If the family purse is really loaded, she's "working" with a psychoanalyst. Since he, unlike the family doctor, is too busy to make house calls, she plans later in the day to "throw on a few clothes" and drag herself to the analytic couch.

There she recalls a dream in which Clark Gable, dressed in a sailor suit, chases her through the woods that surrounded her parents' old homestead. Arriving at the front door, she is greeted by Walter Pidgeon who holds off Mr. G. while she races through the doorway. Standing in the hall, she is about to thank her saviour when her husband arrives on the scene and thanks Mr. P. on her behalf.

SEATED BEHIND her, the analyst interrupts his doodling every once in a while to enter a scrawled note. Later, these scrawlings will serve as guides when the dream is "worked out" over the course of the next dozen or so analytic sessions. Without these on-the-spot notes, serious blunders might occur such as casting Mr. P. in the sailor suit and Mr. G. as the savior.

Meanwhile, unless she has a staff of house servants, broom and vacuum cleaner rest in the closet. Ash trays are filled with butts. Her husband has stopped on the way home to pick up cold cuts. And the family doctor, long since fired for his lack of understanding, is maybe delivering the baby of one of those newcomers who are pushing old timers out of the local community.

Know her?

Investigator Reveals Action In Magazine

Stempel Conducted Campaign To Expose VanDoren, Quizzes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The man Charles Van Doren ousted on the rigged TV quiz show "Twenty-One" conducted a crusade to expose Van Doren as a fraud, a House committee investigator says.

Johnson Clubs Spread Like Prairie Fire

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Formation of Johnson-for-President clubs is spreading like a prairie fire across Texas, an Associated Press survey shows.

The spark that touched it off came less than a month ago, Oct. 17, from House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.).

The most remarkable feature of the statewide survey is not so much the number of clubs—now more than 50 and growing every day—but the variety of backing and the hefty local and state political muscle shown.

The senior senator from Texas on the record is running for re-election only. He says it is a long time until the 1960 convention and it's too early for him to take the plunge as an open candidate for the Democratic nomination.

But Rayburn and other backers such as Texas' Democratic national committeeman Byron Skelton of Temple, Gov. Price Daniel and state Democratic executive committee chairman Ed Connolly of Abilene, shrug off Johnson's disavows and keep up the big push.

Johnson's renomination for a new six-year term is regarded by his backers as in the bag. There has been no sign of an opponent.

The survey shows that local leaders pushing the Johnson-for-President clubs include mayors, county judge, state and county Democratic committeemen, elective and appointive officials on all political levels, business and professional leaders, farmers, ranchers.

The contestant, Herbert Stempel, has testified he was ordered by the show's producers to lose deliberately to Van Doren. Stempel himself had won $49,000.

Stempel was infuriated by Van Doren's going on to win $129,000 and unearned nationwide fame as a great brain, investigator Richard N. Goodwin writes in a Life magazine article.

"Stempel embarked upon what he called a crusade for truth but which became a campaign to expose Van Doren and the entire fraudulent quiz-show business," Goodwin said.

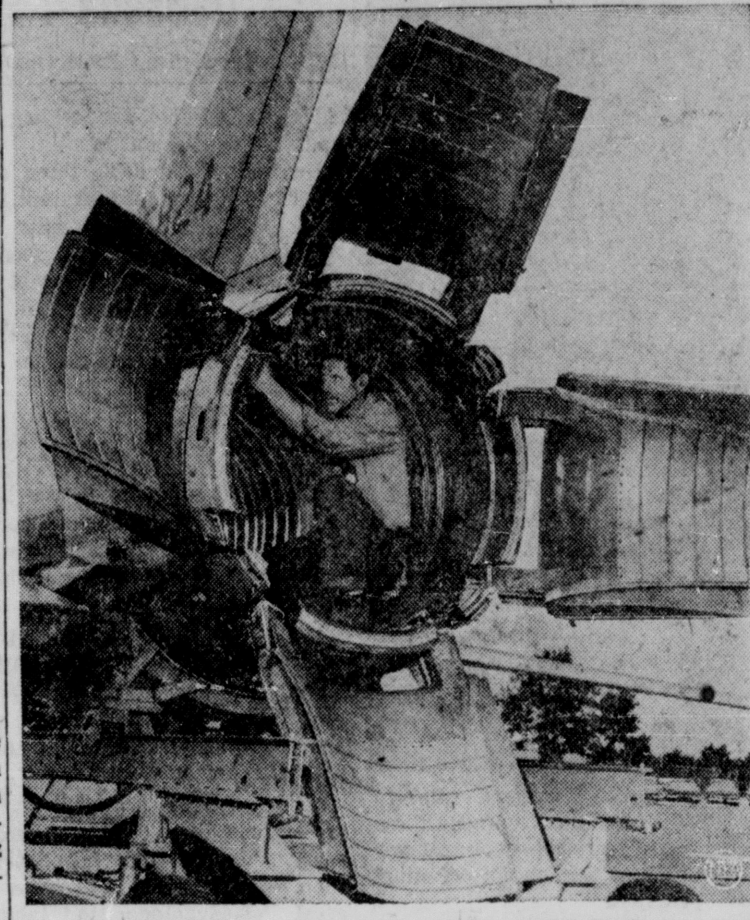

Goodwin said Stempel was one of the best sources of information the House subcommittee had in setting up the hearings that disclosed that the television quiz shows were shot through with fixing and fakery.

The climax for Stempel came last week, Goodwin said, when Van Doren finally confessed to the committee that he had been given all the answers in advance, as well as coaching on how to grimace and wipe sweat from his brow in the isolation booth.

"Stempel flew down from New York to watch him testify," Goodwin said. "He sat in a section of the caucus room where he could see Van Doren's face. His long campaign had come to a dramatic end: Phony quiz shows had been destroyed."

Goodwin added, "Stempel's feelings about 'Twenty-One' itself went deeper than his admittedly strong feelings about Van Doren. While he was on the show, Stempel was called 'the poor boy from Brooklyn' (he wasn't poor, and he was from Queens)."

"In his humble role he had to address the master of ceremonies as 'Mr. Barry'. Other contestants called him 'Jack'. Every week Stempel wore the same old suit and a shirt that was frayed around the collar. One night he decided to wear a good suit. After the show, producer Dan Enright said: 'You're not doing your homework, Herb.'"

Dutch Girl Named 1960 'Miss World'

LONDON (AP) — Corine Rottschaffer, a blue-eyed Dutch blonde who won the 1960 "Miss World" title by a 5-4 vote Tuesday night, is pleased over charges that the contest was rigged.

"I'm a model and I need publicity," said Corine after her selection prompted wails of protest from the American and Canadian contestants. "Now I'll be able to charge higher prices."

Corine edged Miss Peru, Maria Rosel, 17, to take the crown, which ranks with Long Beach's "Miss Universe" and Atlantic City's "Miss America" in the upper bracket of beauty contests.

Both Loretta Powell of Bridgeport, Conn., representing the United States, and Miss Canada, Huguette Demers, charged that padding was responsible for the 37-inch bust that topped the winner's 22 waist and 37 hips.

They also claimed that Corine is engaged to one of the judges — Frenchman Claude Behr, a beauty contest organizer who sponsored Corine in last year's Miss Universe competition.

"I've heard this talk but believe me there's nothing to it," Behr declared. "Some of the girls apparently believe Corine is my fiancée but that's impossible—I'm already married."

Corine denied the padding charge, asserting, "I had no support, no wires, no padding." Third prize went to Ziva Shomrat, 18, a private in the Israeli army. She was followed by Anne Thelwell of England, 22, and Kirsten Olsen, 20, of Denmark.

Anti-White Riots Erupt In Africa

PAARL, South Africa (AP) — Anti-white rioting broke out here again Tuesday night as thousands of screaming Africans stoned cars and fought police for the second consecutive night.

One African has been killed, eight Africans and Asians injured and three whites injured.

The Africans are retaliating for the banishment of a woman trade union leader who has since disappeared. There was speculation she had sought asylum in Basutoland or Bechuanaland, neighboring British protectorates.

GRASS FIRE SPREADS

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — Four Clermont County fire departments sought to cut off a grass fire that raced through an estimated 500 acres north of nearby Bethel Tuesday, burning down a barn. Firefighters said the blaze, one of the biggest known in this area, apparently started in a trash fire.

LEAVES BOND IN LISBON

Steel

Lakes Superior and Huron will be postponed indefinitely so the badly needed ore can continue to move to mills.

Although steelworkers went back to work when called, Wheeling Steel employees showed their resentment. Hundreds at Wheeling's Yorkville, Ohio, plant wore arm bands that said "USW of A. Ike's Slaves." At the Beech Bottom, W. Va., plant some men carried a sign that stated: "We shall return as slaves of Ike."

Ike, Benson Reveal '60 Farm Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson have announced a farm program they will present to Congress next year.

Its key provisions are:

1. To base price supports of storable commodities, particularly wheat, on market prices rather than on the old parity formula. The administration submitted much the same plan to the Democratic-controlled Congress this year and it was rejected.

2. To expand the voluntary retirement of land from crop production for the next five or 10 years, with particular reference to areas with big crop surpluses. This is an extension of Benson's present conservation reserve program.

Also included are a stepping up of research for developing new markets and uses for farm products; a vigorous "food-for-peace" program to use up surpluses by making more available to friendly countries; and an expanded rural development program to help low-income farmers obtain a higher standard of living.

All of these programs have been in effect for some time.

Benson described the program at a White House news conference Tuesday after a talk with the President.

Parity is a standard designed to give the farmer fair prices for his products in relation to the cost of things he buys.

Northern Ohio Layoffs Are Continuing

CLEVELAND (AP) — While workers in steel and related industries are being called back to their jobs, some plants in northern Ohio still are laying off workers as a result of the 116-day steel strike.

Some 1,200 truckers and about the same number of railroad workers have been called back in the last week or so. A spokesman for trucking companies that haul steel said some 2,400 truckers had been laid off because of the strike.

The spokesman said more truckers may be called next week as iron and finished steel begin moving steadily out of the steel plants.

Truckers and rail employees were among the first to feel the effects of the strike.

Some 700 employees were called back by the Pennsylvania Railroad a week ago in anticipation of the end of the strike. These were mostly shop workers. Some 200 trainmen returned to duty this week.

The Baltimore & Ohio said 200 trainmen were called back, mostly in the Warren and Youngstown districts.

Meanwhile, the Chrysler Corp. laid off 150 workers at its Twinsburg stamping plant. The company said more layoffs might come later this week. The plant is running on a day-to-day basis until a steady supply of steel is assured, a spokesman said.

Midland - Ross Corp. laid off 325 of its 1,500 employees Tuesday. A spokesman said the layoffs were caused by the shutdown of plants of Midland-Ross customers.

Two Are Hospitalized Following Accidents

Two area residents are reported in good condition at City Hospital where they were admitted following miscellaneous accidents.

Glenna Moore, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Moore of RD 1, Lisbon, fractured her right arm when she fell down the steps at school Tuesday.

Mrs. Lorena Wolf, 48, of 120 N. Lincoln Ave. suffered lacerations of the right index finger today when it was caught in a press at the Church Budget Envelope Co. where she is employed.

Unemployment

showed 66,347,000 employed and 3,230,000 unemployed. The steel strikers and others idled in labor walkouts are not counted as unemployed, but those furloughed as a result of strikes are included.

Actually, Mitchell's prediction of 67 million employed by October came true much earlier. June, July and August all showed working totals topping that figure. Because of the steel strike the figure since has slid back below 67 million.

progress," but they can't stand by quietly and let their members be thrown out of work. Unions also maintain, said Bell, that mechanization should not lower an individual worker's wages, even if machines make his job easier.

On top of these arguments is the problem of creeping inflation, which unions also use as a weapon against management, Bell said.

How do you bring about peace? Bell's quick answer:

"There is no single solution or simple approach. Each case is different, although they all revolve around economic and working conditions. An approach that works in one case usually will not work in another."

Bell looks at labor relations as a form of human relations. "Keep both sides talking. Use persuasion and logic, and they usually come to some understanding."

Mediator Bell, a man who looks and acts as if he truly detests fights, is a familiar figure to labor and management in the gas and electric companies of Columbus. He has sifted their labor problems for years.

His experience as a printer fitted him well for his mediation work in struggles between Columbus and Cincinnati newspapers and the typographical union.

Before Bell's Washington boss, Joseph F. Finnegan, assigned him to Columbus, Bell worked full-time in Cincinnati. There he negotiated in cases involving the Goodyear Atomic Corp., Portsmouth; the Monsanto Chemical Co., Miamisburg; the Lunkenheimer Co., and the Newport Steel Co., both of the Cincinnati area. However, his work takes him throughout Ohio and to bordering states.

If he uses any single technique to avoid strikes, or to end them quickly, it is to make suggestions. When labor and management can not agree, he looks at the problem from a third angle and suggests a compromise.

Unfortunately, compromises are becoming harder to find, as illustrated by recent prolonged disputes. Bell sees more federal labor legislation in the making, especially for vital industries.

The only way for labor and management to avoid increased federal control is to make collective bargaining work, Bell states. "Good labor relations don't happen; they are made . . . There must be more thorough understanding of management problems on the part of unions," Bell believes.

Both sides, he continues, must look for ways to get jobs for workers made jobs by automation. He said that's the underlying problem today—running through the steel and auto industries—and the man who finds the solution will be an international hero.

Veterans Day Not Special To Sgt. York

PALL MALL, Tenn. (AP)—Today is Veterans Day but it's nothing special to Sgt. Alvin York, the World War I hero who is ill, partly blind and not too prosperous.

However, the 71-year-old veteran, sitting erect on the edge of his bed, said his outlook could be worse.

Despite a stroke which left him paralyzed on one side and sightless in one eye, his health is improving to the point he dreams of fox hunting again.

He hasn't heard from the federal government lately on the $85,000 in taxes he allegedly owes on income from the movie "Sergeant York."

"We differ, the way all men do," he said in an interview. "They claim I owe 'em so much, I say I don't owe 'em a dime."

As for Veterans Day: "Armistice Day is just another day. Every war is to end wars—and we've still got 'em going on or coming up."

At dawn on an October day in 1918, York killed 25 Germans and almost singlehandedly captured 132 prisoners. For that he received the Medal of Honor.

Unemployed Claims Still On Increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Continuing claims for unemployment compensation, still reflecting secondary effects of the steel strike, climbed to 79,530 in the week ended Nov. 7.

In the previous week, the continuing claims of those unemployed one week or more totaled 68,122, the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reported today.

There was a slight drop in filing of new claims during the week—from 21,706 to 20,969. Continuing claims in the weeks of November last year averaged 86,110, and those of new claims 14,827.

Minor reductions were noted in the number of new and continuing claims for the 13 weeks of extended benefits after regular compensation is exhausted. New claims in this category totaled 837 in the week ended Nov. 7 compared to 954 the previous week, and continuing claims dropped from 8,047 to 7,977.

choice unless he was willing to split the Western front.

De Gaulle laid down three conditions for going to a summit. He said that first he must have his meeting with Khrushchev; second, there must be a relaxation of international tension; and third, the Western leaders must understand each other in advance of their negotiations with Khrushchev.

U.S. officials do not question De Gaulle's sincerity in making these requirements. But they do think his stated reasons only partially reflect the real pressures operating on him to slow down the summit process. They analyze these as follows:

1. De Gaulle is determined to meet Khrushchev before sitting down in a four-power conference with him because Macmillan and Eisenhower have had private talks with the Soviet leader.

2. The French president wants to explode the French nuclear weapon before the negotiations open. Otherwise, he will be at a great disadvantage in talking about disarmament.

3. De Gaulle hopes to have brought about a much more stable political situation in Algeria. Particularly, he is said to feel that Soviet good behavior with respect to Algeria is a necessary pre-condition for a summit meeting.

military posts all over the world have similar ceremonies.

Under a rotation system, this year's Washington ceremonies are in charge of the American Legion. Other veterans' groups have picked these other cities as sites for their main services: The Amvets at Chicago, the Army Navy Legion at Philadelphia, the Disabled Veterans at Dodge City, Kan., the Marine Corps League at Harrisburg, Pa., and the Veterans for Foreign Wars at Birmingham, Ala.

In New York two parades were scheduled. Veterans organizations march down Fifth avenue to the Eternal Light at Madison Square and to the Veterans Monument in Union Square. Brooklyn's American Legion parades in that borough.

Federal workers were given the day off. So were many school children.

Matter of Fact

During the 100 years from 1850 to 1950, power and machinery increased at such a rate that in 1950 one worker in the United States could produce six times as much goods in one hour as a worker of 1850 could. In 1850, 79 per cent of the power used for doing work came from horses, 15 per cent from men and 6 per cent from machines. In 1950, only 3 per cent came from horses, 3 per cent from men and 94 per cent from machines.

Leetonia LCBA Plans Anniversary Dinner

LEETONIA — The Ladies Catholic Benevolent Association anniversary dinner will be held at the Valley Golf Club, Thursday, Nov. 19, at 6:30 p.m. Mrs. Larry Duko, general chairman, requests reservations be in by Nov. 15.

3 Die as Car Plunges Into Ohio Canal

CLEVELAND (AP) — Three young men who worked at the Chrysler plant in Twinsburg were killed Tuesday night in an accident that plunged their automobile into the Ohio Canal in Valley View.

The victims were Emerson Pinkney, 24, of Cleveland; Robert Perkie, 21, of Cleveland, and James Walter Arnold, 24, of Independence.

The sedan in which the trio was riding was headed north on Canal Road and sideswiped three oncoming cars on a curve. It swerved out of control, broke off a wooden utility pole, and plunged into the canal at a spot about 500 yards south of Ohio 17.

One rear wheel, still spinning, was the only part of the sedan not submerged, and the car lights still shone under the muddy canal waters when the first motorists reached the canal bank.

One unidentified man plunged into the canal to try to free the trapped men. But the car doors, smashed by the utility pole, pinned the victims inside.

Volunteer firemen from Valley View also tried without success to reach the men, using a rescue boat.

When a wrecker truck finally pulled the car from the canal, the three men still were inside.

The coroner's office will ascertain today whether they died of drowning or of injuries resulting when the car struck the pole.

Drivers of two of the three cars that were sideswiped said they were unhurt and their cars were not damaged seriously. The driver of the third sideswiped car was not located.

Lester W. Braham, 24, air traffic controller, Cleveland, and Alberta G. Watson, 19, receptionist, East Liverpool.

Herbert William Baker, 24, service station attendant, East Palestine, and Erla Jean Campbell, 21, cashier, East Liverpool.

The dinner will be served smorgasbord style. For reservations members should call Mrs. Duko, Mrs. Ben Brown or Mrs. Joe Less. Mrs. Less, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Al Citino and Mrs. Mary Dudick will furnish the program.

THE NATIONAL THESPIAN Society, in conjunction with the Leetonia High School Speech Department, has scheduled the production, "Junior Miss" as the first play of the season. It will be presented Friday, Dec. 4 with a cast of 19.

Those taking part will be Janet Burnes, Glenn Navojosky, Bruce Campbell and Carolyn Stratton with the leading parts.

The play is under the direction of R. Richard Banker, director of speech.

The Senior Choir of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will practice on Thursday evening at 7:30. A special invitation is extended to high school young people.

Ellsworth Host To Area Firemen

ELLSWORTH — Volunteer firemen held a mutual aid practice drill at the Ellsworth School house recently.

Firemen and equipment from Greenford, North Jackson, Goshen, and Berlin Center came to the drill and helped with the evacuation of a Cub Scout Troop in the schoolhouse, under the instruction and supervision of an instructor from Canton.

Women of the Auxiliary practiced first aid on the victims and after a short meeting with the instructor served a lunch to all present.

The November PTO meeting of Western Reserve School district was held in the Ellsworth school last week.

After the business meeting, three teachers at the Ellsworth School conducted teaching demonstrations in their classes.

This was followed by open house in the rooms and a lunch was served. There were 200 present.

Seven County Men Enlist In U.S. Army

Seven county men enlisted in the Army during October, according to Sgt. Emuel Bosley, local army recruiter. Each enlisted for a period of three years and is now receiving eight weeks of basic training after which they will receive a two-week furlough. Then they will receive specialized training in the fields they selected.

A local man in the group was Thomas L. Foreman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Foreman of MC 1, Salem. Thomas enlisted for the army's information school under the army's graduate specialist program. He is a 1957 graduate of Salem High School.

Other area men included Charles A. Lippiatt, son of Mrs. Valda M. Irt of Columbia St., Leetonia. Charles selected the communications center operations course. He is a 1959 graduate of Leetonia High School. Also from Leetonia and enlisting for assignment in the field artillery was Edward L. Kleinknecht, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Kleinknecht of Main St.

Others in the group were Canton W. Homan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Homan of 315 E. Friend St., Columbiana. Homan was enlisted as an unassigned. Going in from East Liverpool were Donald N. Bulger, Russell E. Rry-nolds and David Harris.

Sidewalk Scrawls

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Sidewalk scrawls of a Pavement Plato: America's most common ailment today isn't the common cold. It's "the blues"—the 20th century blues.

There are certain periods of history more given to melancholy than others, and this is one of them.

How often do you hear people complain, "I've got the blues," or "I'm down in the dumps"? The only ones who don't are hermits. Hermits often are the happiest people in civilization because they are out of it. They escape its spiritual malaise.

Why should this generation be particularly cursed with that periodic darkness of the spirit, that aching mental void, that heart-tearing emptiness of the soul we know colloquially as "the blues?"

Is it merely the reflective shadow of the threat of atomic annihilation that hangs over us all?

This could be the answer except for one fact—man is usually least melancholy when his days are most perilous. Ironically, he is in danger now when he is at his less given to sadness when he is in danger than when he is at his ease.

Man has never been more comfortable, more free of privation, than is the present generation of Americans. We aren't worn out with work. We're worn out from the pursuit of pleasure and trying too hard to enjoy ourselves.

Chasing joy is in many ways our leading industry. As a child, when it has played too hard, suddenly breaks out in tears, so are grownups overcome by the melancholy that comes from seeking too ardently the false rainbow of cheap delights and self-indulgence.

Wise old Samuel Johnson gave one prescription nearly 200 years ago: "Employment, sir, and hardships, prevent melancholy."

Of course, melancholy isn't altogether an unhealthy thing. An old English proverb says, "He is a fool that is not melancholy once a day." Victor Hugo observed: "Melancholy is the pleasure of being sad."

Melancholy also separates the men from the women. "If there is hell upon earth it is to be found in a melancholy man's heart," wrote Robert Burton.

You will note he said nothing about a woman's heart. A woman is too intelligent to be long overcome by melancholy. She is too much of a fighter. She sheds a few tears, takes a nap, trips to the nearest store, buys herself a new hat or girdle, and comes home feeling fine again.

Women have a wonderful ability to lift their own spirits in small ways, and to change themselves from Cassandras to Cinderellas in three hours.

Men don't. They lack this internal lever of the spirit to pry their soul from black despair. They mope longer because, unlike women, they don't have the common sense to do something about it immediately. They sit in a pool of melancholy and refuse to move.

'Startling Facts' Are Uncovered In Tanker Fire, Blast

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A Coast Guard officer said Tuesday some "startling facts" have been uncovered about the fire and explosion Sunday that destroyed the tanker Amoco Virginia with a loss of eight lives.

Cmdr. Charles F. Kaminski, heading the Houston portion of the probe, said "We spent yesterday getting a line on those we propose to interview. But I have already come across some startling facts."

Kaminski would not elaborate on the findings pending a formal hearing.

Seven crewmen, including the captain, died when the tanker caught fire and exploded. A Houston fireman died the next day while trying to cool the ship.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: You and your pat answers. It sounds so simple when you reel off those high-sounding phrases but putting them into practice is another story.

I've been married to a cake of ice for 12 years. We have three children. They are here only because my wife's sister-in-law had three and she wasn't going to be outdone.

I've threatened to get affection elsewhere and her reply is, "It would be a relief. Just leave me alone."

She's under 30 years of age, a smart dresser, wonderful housekeeper and 100 per cent all-out mother. Of course I can't discuss this with anyone we know but I need outside help. Tell me what to do about a woman who is frozen.—Z-RO.

Dear Z-Ro: Many are cold—but few are frozen. This story is an old one. Unfortunately your wife is probably a chip off the old glacier. A woman who tells her husband to find romance elsewhere and leave her alone knows very well she's inviting trouble—and she'd probably collapse if you took her up on it.

You both should have a frank talk with the family doctor. This is "strictly business" to him. Perhaps something in your approach has frozen her up. She owes it to you to discuss this problem with a professional and be a full-time wife.

Favorite Subject

Dear Ann: My stepdaughter married a no-good bum. They both like to drink. As a result they can't hold jobs because they get nasty when they're stiff—which is all the time.

Last month, my husband took $672 out of the bank and gave them a down payment for a car. I raised holy Ned with my husband and he said it was HIS money because he had earned it. I've kept house, cooked, ironed and nursed him in illness for 20 years. Do I have a right to feel that half of what he has belongs to me?—BURNED UP.

Dear Burned Up: You do, indeed. What some men can't get through their heads is this: A wife is a partner in marriage and shares her husband's hard-earned money even if she doesn't bring home a paycheck.

A wife who lets her husband dole out paltry sums when he feels big-hearted is a fool. As a matter of dignity every woman should have some money to call her own. She should not have to beg. Nor should she be so ignorant about finances that her husband can draw $672 out of the bank without her knowledge. (Guess I gave you more information than you requested but this is one of my pet subjects!)

Gam Conscious

Dear Ann Landers: Please don't throw this letter away because it's not earth shaking. Your answer could mean a lot to millions of girls my age.

I am 13 — too young for this and too old for that. In other words, I'm a nothing.

How old should a girl be before she wears hose and heels? Mom says I'm too young but some girls in my class have been doing it since they were 12. Whatever you say is law.—SOCKS TO STOCKINGS.

Dear Socks: High school (about 15) is time enough to change from socks to stockings and from flats to heels. Of course this means special evening occasions only and it also means you must behave like a lady if you expect Mom to let you dress like one.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

'CISCO KID' WINS

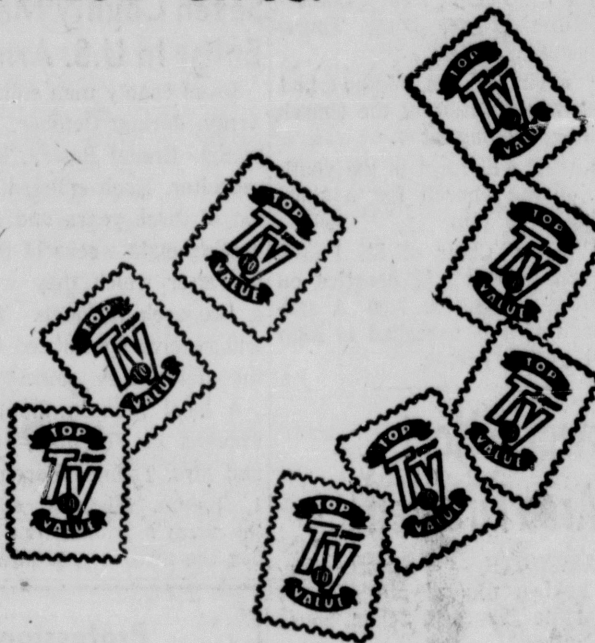

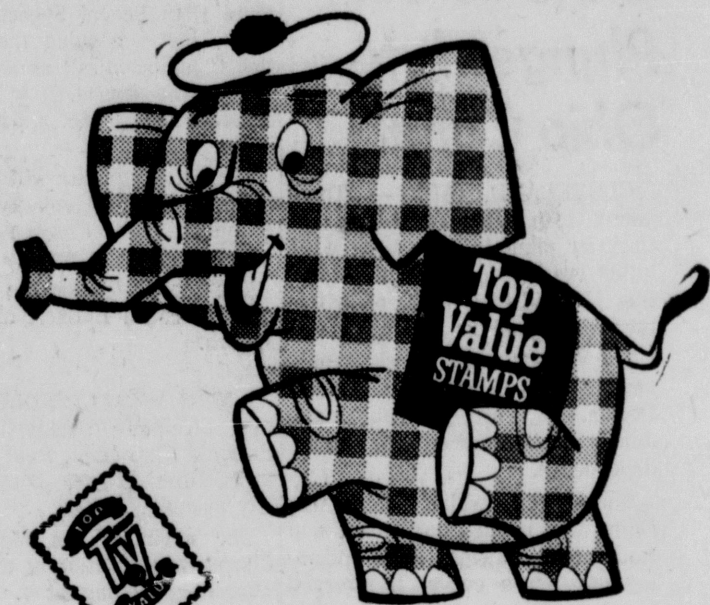

CLEVELAND (AP) — Duncan Renaldo of Malibu, Calif., better known to television fans as the Cisco Kid, won a Common Pleas Court victory here Tuesday and handed out autographed pictures to Judge J. P. Judge Corrigan dismissed a $50,000 suit which charged that "Cisco" breached a contract by not attending a publicity conference when he staged a rodeo at the Berea fairground last May.

Salem Host to Hapless Girard In Final Grid Contest

Indians Have 1-7 Record Injuries Riddle Girard's Lineup

By DICK BRAUTIGAM
Salem's Quakers, fresh from a 20-0 victory over highly regarded East Liverpool, return to Reilly Stadium Friday to take on the Girard Indians, door mat of the Steel Valley Conference.

Girard has managed just one victory in eight tries this year. Coach Bill Battin's crew turned in an impressive 32-12 win over Boardman at mid-season. They looked only fair before that game and haven't looked as good since.

They opened with a 20-6 defeat at the hands of Hubbard. The Indians did give East Liverpool a fight before bowing 22-6.

Other losses were administered by Struthers 14-8, Brookfield 12-6, Niles 22-0, Campbell Memorial 32-6, and Austintown Fitch 24-6.

THE HARD LUCK Indians have had more than their share of injuries this season. Coach Battin has been forced to do a mass juggling act with his players.

Girard's injury problems started just after the Boardman victory. They lost four starters in the following game with Brookfield. By the time they met Niles, the Indians had six starters out of the lineup because of injuries.

Coach Battin claims that for the Salem game, no fewer than eight starters will be missing from the lineup. Most of the injuries have been to linemen, including the squad's top four ends.

Still Girard has a backfield star who makes them a threat every time they have the ball. He is Lou Antonucci, 170-pound senior. The left halfback has speed to burn.

UNTIL THE SALEM game, Antonucci was the only player to score a touchdown against East Liverpool by rushing. He registered from 10 yards out against the Potters.

Coach Battin says Antonucci is an outstanding performer but that he lost much of his effectiveness when the team's blocking back was knocked out of commission for the season.

With all the injuries, Battin has pretty much thrown in the towel this year and is using sophomores and juniors to build for next season.

Antonucci and right end Jim Carney, 165, will be the only seniors in the starting lineup Friday night.

The backfield will have a pair of sophomores, quarterback Phil Koppel, 140, and right halfback Ralph Marquez, 140. The fullback will be Jerry Kovachick, 180-pound junior.

AT LEFT END will be Charles Matkovich, 150, junior. The tackles will be George Biznak, 195, junior, and Ron DePietro, 185, junior. Starting at the guards will be Ron Scarfo, 185, junior and Dan Ambrose, 180, junior. Ray Hurley, 160, junior will open at center.

The line averages a healthy 174 pounds per man. The backs average under 160 pounds.

Salem and Girard have met four times, with the Indians coming out on the short end of the score on each occasion. The series started in 1944 and came to an end in 1947. Scores of the Salem victories were 20-6, 6-0, 26-12 and 25-0.

For Salem, Friday's tilt will wind up the 1959 season. Girard has one more game remaining with Warren St. Mary's.

Trainer Jack Osborne has widened his lead in the struggle for conditioning honors. The veteran horseman has saddled 16 winners since opening day, four more than the 12 chalked up by George J. Schatz. George Ellis with eight is next in line.

14 Ignore Top Team In State

Prejudiced Voters Deal Blow to Football Poll

By DICK BRAUTIGAM
The Ohio high school football poll conducted by the Associated Press suffered a blow to its prestige this week when several of the state's sportswriters and sportscasters apparently conspired to make a mockery of the ratings.

The Associated Press in Columbus said yesterday that of the 46 press and radio men participating in the weekly poll, 14 ignored completely one of the high ranking unbeaten-untied teams and awarded high spots to its chief rival.

Brown Leads NFL Scoring

Big Fullback Still Tops Rushing

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Fullback Jimmy Brown of Cleveland, who has led the National Football League in rushing all season, now has taken over first place in scoring.

The bulldozing Brown, who has been a one-man show for the Browns, scored two touchdowns Sunday against Philadelphia to bring his season's total to 10 for 60 points.

He is trailed by Tom Davis, San Francisco, 55 points; Bobby Joe Conrad, Chicago Cardinals, 53; and Bobby Layne, Pittsburgh, 51.

Meanwhile, Brown has gained 862 yards on the ground in 183 carries for a 4.7 average. Second in rushing is J. D. Smith of San Francisco, who sows 696 yards in 139 carries for a 5.0 average. Ollie Matson of Los Angeles is third with 687 yards in 116 tries for a 5.9 average.

Quarterback Ralph Guglielmi of Washington, who has been sidelined the past two weeks with injuries, backed into the passing lead as last week's leader, Billy Wade of Los Angeles, failed to maintain his average gain. Average gain determines the leaders in passing.

Guglielmi has completed 26 of 60 pass attempts for 515 yards and an 8.58 average. Wade, has 85 completions in 137 attempts for 1,133 yards and an 8.27 average.

Ray Barry, Baltimore, caught only four passes Sunday against Washington but his 44 catches for the year gives him a wide edge in the receiving department. He has gained 643 yards, more than a third of his team's total.

Behind Barry are Billy Wilson, San Francisco, 31-412; and Frank Gifford, New York, 28-531.

New York's Don Chandler continues to be tops in punting with a 47.7 average. Second is Tom Davis of San Francisco with a 45.6 average.

Another Cage Foe Sought by Wellsville

Wellsville High School is looking for an additional basketball game to round out its 1959-60 schedule.

Faculty Manager Don Lowe says he would like to get together with any team interested in meeting the Bengals and arrange a date for the game.

Lowe also reports that Wellsville still has two open dates on its 1960 football schedule. The dates are Sept. 16 and Oct. 14.

AP did not release the results of the poll, saying they did not give a true state wide picture.

Fritz Howell, who conducts the poll, was not available for comment today but his office indicated that the two teams involved were Massillon and Springfield.

Massillon was ranked first last week and Springfield second.

Unconfirmed reports are that many of the ballots from Southwestern Ohio gave strong support to Springfield and did not rate Massillon in the top 10. Both teams are unbeaten. Points are awarded in the poll on a 10-9-8 etc. basis.

One ballot reportedly gave a high rating to Barborton, a team that Massillon defeated 90-0 last week.

Massillon has been criticized on several fronts for running up the score against Barborton. Figures released by Massillon Coach Leo Strang after reviewing films of the game show that only two men were in the game for more than half the plays.

They were Capt. Sluggo Begnar, a tackle, who saw action during 77 per cent of the plays and Junior fullback Art Hastings who was in for 80 per cent of the game.

Ace quarterback Joe Sparma was in the game for 34 per cent of the plays. Strang used all of the more than 40 players he had dressed for the game.

Participants in the high school poll have often been criticized for over zealous support of teams in their own areas. Last week, for example, 10 teams received first place votes from the 44 participants in the poll.

In the other major scholastic poll in the state, which is conducted by UPI, selected coaches make the ratings. Coaches have proved to be no less immune to area prejudices than the writers.

In this week's UPI poll, eight teams received first place votes from 26 participating coaches.

Interesting first place votes this week were cast for Martins Ferry and twice-beaten Warren. Massillon was voted first and Springfield second. Warren was 13th, East Liverpool 14th, and Alliance 16th. Salem and Steubenville were tied for 22nd in the coaches' poll.

Northwestern over Michigan State: Ron Burton gets the Evanston Wildcats back on the winning side.

Louisiana State over Mississippi State: Billy Canonn and his LSU playmates are snarling after that loss to Tennessee.

Washington over California: That Washington defense and George Fleming's kicking may carry the Huskies into the Rose Bowl.

Texas over Texas Christian: Another step to the Cotton Bowl.

Oklahoma over Army: The Sooners need this victory to salvage what has become for them a dreary season.

Elsewhere:

Georgia Tech over Alabama, Wisconsin over Illinois, Notre Dame over Pittsburgh, Mississippi over Tennessee, Ohio State over Iowa, North Texas State over Arkansas, Auburn over Georgia, Air Force over Arizona.

Browns to Meet Stronger Redskins

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns expect a stronger Redskins' team at Washington Sunday than the one they faced here two weeks ago.

The Browns, nine-point favorites this time had little trouble with the Redskins on Oct. 25, beating them 34-7.

However, the Redskins played without first-string quarterback Eddie LeBaron and end Joe Walton.

With LeBaron passing and Walton catching, the Redskins defeated Baltimore's Colts last week, 27-24. The week before, the Browns earned a 38-31 decision over the Colts.

End coach Paul Bixler, after scouting the Redskins-Colts game: "LeBaron looked good and the team is much better with him at quarterback. Walton was still limping, but he got two touchdown passes."

After defeating the Colts, Bixler said of the Redskins, "you can be sure they'll be a fired-up football team from now on."

Orange Favored Over Colgate

Northwestern To Top Michigan

NANDI, Fiji Islands (AP) — This is the romantic island where the cop on the corner wears a skirt and his wife wears a dress. The confusion is terrific. Who how can we be certain of picking the correct winners in the college football dress parade?

Syracuse over Colgate: With hardly a deep breath.

Northwestern over Michigan State: Ron Burton gets the Evanston Wildcats back on the winning side.

7 Nations In International

Tudor Era Holds Roll of Favorite

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — The snap of an elastic rope at the yell "come on" by starter Eddie Blind will release a dozen straining horses this afternoon for a mile and half run in the biggest representative Washington D.C. International so far.

The nine nations with rooting interest in the $100,000 spectacle are two more than in any of the past seven internationals.

The flags of the United States, The U.S.S.R., England, Peru, Australia, New Zealand, Mexico, France and Venezuela will be flying in the infield against a solid backdrop of gold and green leaves.

A home-owned entry, Tudor Era, is again being touted as the probable favorite at early odds of 2-1. The bettors put most of their money on U.S. entries five times previously and lost it. Foreign favorites in two other internationals also failed.

Tudor Era, owned by Mrs. Herbert Herff of Memphis, Tenn., who bought the English-bred speeder three years ago for $15,000, is drawing his heavy support mostly on the basis of having finished first in last year's International fust.

Tudor Era was disqualified, and placed second, and the $70,000 first prize was awarded to the Australian, Sailor's Guide. Trainer Arnold Winick says Tudor Era will "mend matters" this time.

Slight excuses are being made only for England's Aggressor and France's Mi Carina.

Aggressor does best on a soft turf. But the brand new Oareul course, expanded from seven-eighths to a full mile, is firm and the weather forecast is for fair with temperatures in the low 60s.

Travelers with Mi Carina say the 3-year-old filly did not ship as well as countrymate Midnight Sun. The Laurel probable odds selector has made Midnight Sun, a 3-year-old colt, his second choice at 3-1.

The other U.S. starter is Cain Hoy Stable's Bald Eagle.

The Soviet pair of Garnir and Flang is the biggest question mark. Garnir, who finished sixth last year, has improved impressively in appearance and will start from the inside post position. Flang provokes thought with five straight victories behind the Iron Curtain.

"We have as good a chance to win as anybody else," says Yevgeni Dolomotov, leader of the Soviet delegation.

Similar sentiments exist in the camps of New Zealand's Up and Coming, Venezuela's Pensilvania, Peru's Lightning, Australia's Vogel and Mexico's Lea-B.

Syracuse Delays Bowl Bid Reply

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Orange Bowl officials called a special meeting today to review talent prospects for their New Year's Day football extravaganza.

University of Syracuse could have had a bid by now. But its trustees, meeting two hours, postponed a decision Tuesday. Spokesmen said first they wouldn't meet again until Sunday, then indicated they would confer within a couple of days.

"I don't think our committee would wait until Sunday," said Van C. Kussrow, chairman of the group which lines up opponents for the annual Orange Bowl game.

Kussrow already had told Syracuse it could have an Orange Bowl invitation by quick acceptance.

Syracuse, never a winner in two Orange Bowl appearances, currently is No. 1 in the Associated Press Poll. Its players voted in favor of the Miami date but Syracuse officials said this would not be a vital point in their decision.

"There are plenty of directions in which we can turn for a host to meet the Big Eight's team eleven," Kussrow said. "We had figured quick acceptance by Syracuse would have paid a publicity dividend."

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By RUFUS LIDE

Hunters are cautioned to be sure they are on land that can be legally hunted if they are in search of bobwhite quail. The season opens Monday, Nov. 16.

Quail can be legally hunted only on areas of land owned by the state, under lease to the state, licensed shooting preserves and such other lands as are controlled under formal easements, licenses or agreements with the Department of Natural Resources.

In this classification are approximately 500,000 acres of state wildlife, parks and forest lands and 141,821 acres of pooled farm land in 39 counties. This latter acreage is controlled under an agreement with the Ohio Wildlife Council.

NO OWNERS or other occupants of private property may hunt quail on their lands unless they are part of a unit approved by the state. Even after the land is under contract, permission to hunt must be obtained from the owners or the agent representing them.

Rabbits, Hungarian partridges and pheasants may also be hunted beginning Monday, Nov. 16, but in these cases there is no limit as to area.

Joe Vogelhuber, manager of the Saxon Lanes, says the league will be open to anyone in the area, including beginning bowlers. Each team will consist of two couples. They need not be husband and wife, Vogelhuber explained.

This will be a handicap league. Anyone desiring to participate may contact Vogelhuber at Saxon Lanes. There is no league of this type currently operating in Salem.

Rosensohn Hearing Set For Thursday

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Cus d'Amato's hearing is over and promoter Bill Rosensohn's opens Thursday before the New York State Athletic Commission. No immediate decision is expected in the case of the manager of former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson.

Julius November, D'Amato's attorney, Tuesday asked the commission to toss out four of the five charges against his client, who was suspended Sept. 24. He admitted one "minor" violation, not filing a manager's report within five days after the June 26 heavyweight title fight between Ingemar Johansson and Patterson.

The commission reserved decision on November's action. They have asked him to furnish copies of certain contracts before it makes up its mind on D'Amato, who may lose his license, draw a fine and suspension or win reinstatement.

Short Quiz on Your Social Habits Warns of Tendency to Alcoholism

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Say, have you got a minute to answer an easy little quiz about your social habits?

1. Everybody knows that alcoholics get into financial and job difficulties because of drinking. But do you drink because you are shy socially?

2. Alcoholics lose their efficiency and ambition by and by. But do you crave a drink at a definite time daily?

3. Alcoholics often drink to escape from worries and trouble. But do you ever drink to build your self-confidence?

4. Alcoholics make their home life unhappy and their personal welfare meager. But have you lost any time from work as a result of drinking?

5. Alcoholics often turn to lower companions and inferior environment when drinking. But do you prefer to drink alone?

6. Alcoholics often are brought to physicians, hospitals and institutions for treatment. But is your reputation affected by your drinking?

7. Alcoholics usually want a drink the next morning. But do you suffer remorse the next morning?

8. Alcoholics often have blackouts — a complete loss of memory from drinking. Do you?

NOW, ACCORDING TO Dr. Robert V. Seliger of Johns Hopkins Medical Hospital, who devised this test:

One "yes" answer to any of the propositions and questions is a warning that you may be on the road to alcoholism.

Two "yes" answers: the chances are you are an alcoholic. Surveyors estimate there are seven million Americans in this category.

Three "yes" answers or more: you are definitely alcoholic. At least four million Americans are in this category today — with the number growing annually.

Well, there are a lot of other statistics you can use — like: National Council on Alcoholism estimates of 352 million man hours lost annually with a cost to industry of about $1 billion, exorbitant costs of crime, accidents (at least 30 per cent of fatal car crashes, according to the National Safety Council), medical and institutional expenses (Massachusetts recently discovered it spent $3.50 on alcoholism costs for every $1 of beer and liquor tax it received; California $7.50; Utah, $1.50; etc.).

BUT IN REAL LIFE, only one statistic is sharply meaningful, namely: of every 12 people who drink, one will become an alcoholic. And so, only one question is worth asking: how can he be stopped?

There is a difference of opinion. The largest organized group at work on the problem, the Methodist Church (40 million members) Board of Temperance, says: "Abstinence."

In the words of the Board's associate secretary, Roger Burgess, "This does not mean a national prohibition law. It means a program of advising teen-agers at the decision-making age of the facts, evidence and spiritual components in drinking so they will decide against it — without ever having tasted a drop."

TO THIS END, the Methodists are spending $200,000 per year on everything from campus visits to jazz, movies and rehabilitation programs to make abstinence attractive to kids, alcoholics and city councils.

"It's hardly any kind of a budget," Burgess said, "compared to the $413 million spent on alcohol advertising in the U.S. yearly."

Not opposed, but different from the Methodist Board approach is medical opinion.

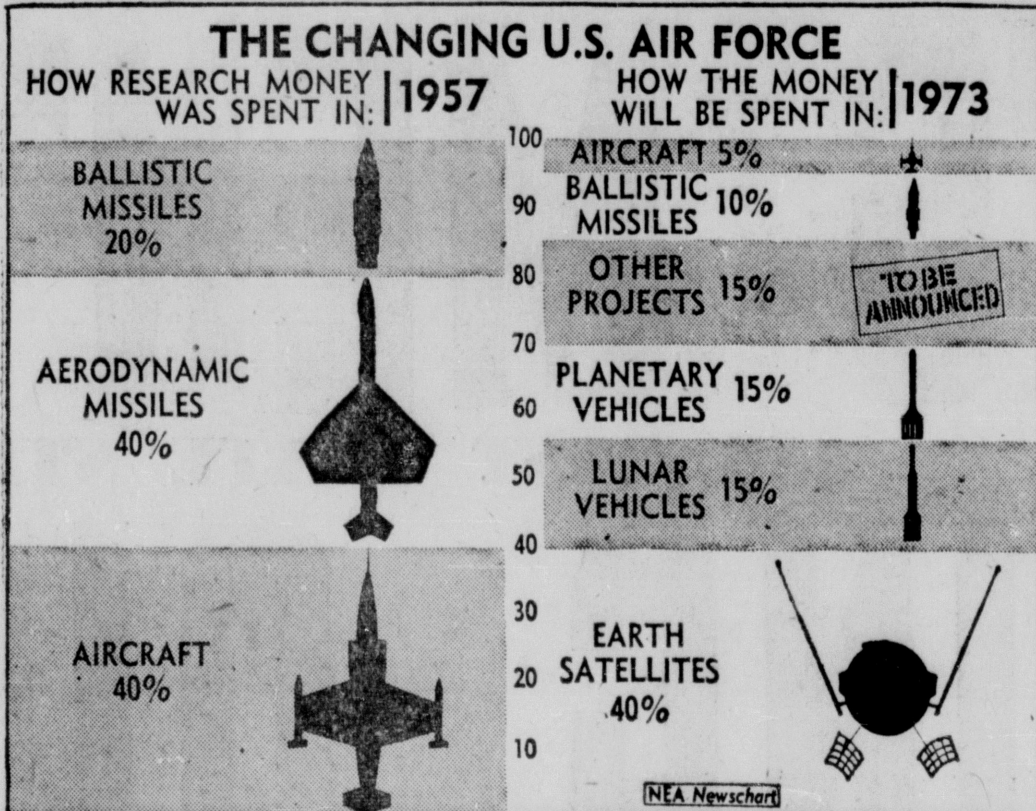

"We have learned," Internist Dr. Henry Shapiro tells me, "what a prohibition law can do. We have also learned that alcoholism is not an addiction the way narcotics are habit-forming — as a part of the body's metabolic need."

"Alcoholism is brought on by a psychological need. Of those statistical 12 men — all under the same pressure in the same culture — one will become an alcoholic because of his psychological constitution."

"You can change his environment, perhaps. Or equalize the pressures on him. But there is no evidence now that you can change his constitution."

CONTRACT SIGNED
CINCINNATI (AP)—After several years of experiment, county commissioners signed a three-year contract with the city and 34 smaller communities Tuesday, setting up a county-wide system to unify police activity. The system will alert all police agencies in the county to aid in pursuit of suspects.

SPACE — THE WILD BLACK YONDER — Fourteen years ago, a 500-m.p.h. fighter plane was the most advanced weapon in the U.S. Air Force. As recently as two years ago, manned airplanes and winged, air-breathing missiles accounted for 30 per cent of the service's research and development budget. Little more than a decade from now aircraft will receive only 5 per cent of these funds as the Air Force changes over almost entirely into space exploration. As chart above shows, provision is even being made to finance projects that are now only in the imagination. Data from the Aerospace Industries Assn.

Farm Price Supports Rapped by Executive

CINCINNATI (AP)—A Chicago executive has lashed at farm price supports which, he said, squeeze "the small family farmer they supposedly protect."

Robert C. Liebenow, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, said Tuesday the support programs "enrich large scale producers, absentee investors and others whose chief source of income is not agricultural."

Liebenow said he thinks most wheat farmers are against the marketing voting on their crop, and asserted it can be rigged.

He said: "In fact, the ambiguous and arbitrary eligibility standards of this referendum, vulnerable to almost unlimited manipulation."

Liebenow addressed the last session of a rural credit conference of the American Bankers Assn.

He said that, 25 years and 25 billion dollars of spending have enabled "the truly needy group of our farm population—those small or part-time farmers who comprise over one half of the so-called farm group—to enjoy a better grade of starvation."

Two Area Motorists Involved In Mishaps

Two area motorists were involved in separate auto accidents on Tuesday afternoon.

A car driven by Ernest Hobe, 51, of RD 1, Salem, smashed into the rear of a car driven by Alexander Mourad, 32, of Canton on Rt. 62, about a half mile west of here, at 5:25 p.m. Mourad was stopped in a line of traffic, Lisbon post highway patrol said.

The patrol cited Hobe for failure to stop in the assured clear distance ahead.

An 82-year-old Columbiana man, George Snyder of 223 N. Main St., was involved in a two-car mishap on Rt. 224 in Boardman at 2:10 p.m. when he drove into the side of a car operated by Doris L. Lohr, 46, of Canfield, the State Highway Patrol there reported. The accident is still under investigation.

The meeting is being sponsored by a committee of the Ohio Ruritan district in an effort to obtain additional safety measures for the school buses. The rural service organization has 25 clubs in the four-county area.

The program will include brief discussions on safety measures instituted by the State Highway Patrol, local school officials, school bus drivers and high school driver-training instructors.

Final Effort Planned In Lisbon Chest Drive

LISBON — Residents who usually give to Community Chest but were away this year when solicitors called will be revisited in an effort to meet the goal, according to treasurer Twing Hiscox who says the drive is just $250 short of its $7,200 quota.

Three solicitors who have made no report will be asked to call in as quickly as possible.

Contributions may be left at the Fireside or Farmers National Bank if more convenient, Hiscox said.

Columbiana Club Hears Rev. Miller

Obscene Literature Target of Speaker

COLUMBIANA — The Rev. M. Rudolph Miller, minister of the First United Presbyterian Church of East Liverpool, was guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club meeting on Monday evening at Heck's Restaurant, discussing the national scandal of widespread pornography literature.

He deplored its influence on the younger generation, and warned that a national decay in moral values, as now evident across the country, could lead to the downfall of the U.S. to the communist powers. The minister likened the present status of the U.S. to that of the Roman empire at the start of its decline, when that great civilization's morals began to crumble.

DiSalle Raps Butler's Note On Quotas

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio Democrats will not be coerced into meeting national contribution quotas set by the party, Gov. Michael V. DiSalle asserted Tuesday.

DiSalle referred to Chairman Paul M. Butler's note to national committee members, governors and other party leaders saying that convention seating and hotel accommodations in Los Angeles next year might depend on how quotas are met.

"In establishing quotas," DiSalle commented, "the ability of states to pay should be taken into consideration."

According to Butler, Ohio ranked 47th among states by paying $59,472 of its $182,000 quota for 1957-59. Ohio is credited with paying $9,817 of its 1959 quota of $66,000 to rank 25th among 32 states.

DiSalle said Ohio had paid between $10,000 and $12,000 of its 1959 obligation and an additional $1,000 for a special appeal.

"This is really trying to use a bludgeon. . . If the delegates are to be coerced by the national chairman by threatening inadequate housing facilities and even floor accommodations, it can only be construed as a power play in the worst kind of way," the governor said.

He recalled that in 1956 and 1958 the national committee showed no consideration for Ohio. "We were left to shift for ourselves and did," he said.

DiSalle lauded State Chairman William L. Coleman as a leader who obtained cooperation to put state headquarters back on its financial feet without threats of force.

"From now on we may not pay anything because we may have to build our own housing facilities at the convention," DiSalle quipped.

DiSalle recalled that Butler beat him out for national chairman and said this action might be considered sour grapes on the governor's part. However, he said he was thankful he was given a much greater opportunity to serve the people of Ohio.

As a parting shot to newsmen, DiSalle, who is being pushed for "favorite son," said "if that does not prove to you I have no national aspirations, nothing does."

MORE MONKEY BUSINESS — Simian Spacemen will precede human astronauts every step of the way into space. Already veterans of rocket rides straight up, monkeys will soon be launched in small-size and full-size capsules similar to the one which may carry a man by 1961. Sketch above shows what's going on at two East Coast launching sites. Recently, at Cape Canaveral, a Mercury capsule—unoccupied—was fired into the fringes of space and recovered intact. Next step is up to the monkeys.

Fredericktown Man Sent to Reformatory

LISBON — Orin C. Barrett, 20, of Fredericktown was sentenced as a probation violator Tuesday by Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp to two concurrent terms of one to seven years in the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield for operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent and auto larceny.

Barrett pleaded guilty to violating terms of the probation which Judge Sharp granted him Nov. 6, 1948 after he confessed to the two offenses.

Barrett was cited by Adult Probation Officer Richard Rose for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Small Girl's Stallion Is Shot, Killed

UMATILLA, Ore. (AP)—It will be a sad, long winter for Susie Hams—without her Captain.

The gentle stallion's broad back and sturdy legs made the world a wonderful place for Susie, 9.

For six months, Captain carried Susie to school and out into the eastern Oregon countryside for days of play with friends—after Susie had struggled up the rails of a fence with her club feet to mount the horse.

But somebody shot and killed Susie's Captain last Sunday. Somebody, according to police, who "just wanted to see what a double-barreled shotgun would do to a horse from 10 feet away."

Now Susie mopes quietly around her farm home, waiting for the day next April when corrective surgery will be performed on her feet at the Shriners' Hospital in Portland, Ore. Sometimes she gazes wistfully out a window at the big pasture where her Captain used to wait.

Susie's mother, Laverne Hams, has offered a $25 reward for information about Captain's death.

"Not for apprehension of the person that did it," Mrs. Hams said, "but purely for the reason why."

Other items of business will include election of the county bee committee and discussion of plans for the Ohio State Bee Association meeting to be held in Columbiana County in July. All beekeepers in the county are urged to attend, Myers said.

12-Day-Old Baby Is Medical Wonder

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Paul Thomas Mullins, just 12 days old, is something of a medical wonder.

He has had four complete exchange blood transfusions. He probably is one of the youngest infants ever to have his heart stop beating and survive.

Paul's mother, Mrs. Thomas Mullins of Peck's Mill, has RH negative blood. Paul's blood is RH positive. One complete blood exchange is common in such cases.

Paul born five weeks premature and weighing 5½ pounds at birth, had four transfusions and was undergoing a fifth when his
